Dedication
Dr. William H. Anderson, Jr.

Everyone associates "taking a chance" with the state of Nevada, which produced our "head gambler", Dr. William H. Anderson, Jr., the principal of South High. He takes long odds sometimes in an effort to help a student realize his potential. Dr. Anderson believes that a second chance, perhaps even a third chance, is a good risk if there is hope of helping a student to find himself and complete his high school education.

Dr. Anderson cares about the students of South; he takes a personal interest too in the welfare of his faculty. Not only does he care about what others think of South High, he cares about what South High contributes to its students. He guards the academic standards at South, he requires students to represent South as responsible, thinking, young citizens, and he personally works to increase the understanding of Denver citizens in the essentials of our excellent school system.

In Reno, Nevada, Dr. Anderson was a fine debater before he graduated from high school. He began his college studies at the University of Nevada and did graduate work at Northwestern University and the University of Denver, where he earned his doctorate in education. Since 1931 he has been a Denver Public Schools teacher and administrator. As a teacher, he worked at North High, East High and at Horace Mann Junior High. Classroom assignments included English, social studies, and journalism. At North, he sponsored both the newspaper and the yearbook. Before 1960, when he came to South, he had been principal at Steele, Park Hill, Fairmont, Smiley, and Kunsmiller.

In the hours away from the halls of South High, Dr. Anderson enjoys cabinetry, all phases of photography, reading, and hiking. As active members of the Colorado Mountain Club, he and Mrs. Anderson depart from the hustle of the city on weekends to enjoy an invigorating day of hiking in the Rockies. This avocation isn't cancelled in the winter, but is merely altered a bit to conform to weather conditions. During this season, these two adventurers employ snowshoes for their mountain hikes.

In his thirty-five years of service to the educational needs of students, Dr. Anderson has found time to make the necessary clerical tasks more simple by initiating and modifying appropriate record forms. As Chairman of the Retirement Board, he has wrought measurable improvements in benefits for our teachers. His personal concern and guidance has encouraged uncounted numbers of students and teachers to higher levels of achievement.

For the lifetime of work you have devoted to thousands of students, we dedicate to you, Dr. Anderson, the 1967 Johnny Reb.

*The gloom of the world
Is a shadow, behind it,
Yet within reach is joy.
There is radiance and glory
In the darkness could we but see,
And to see we have only to look.
I beseech you to look.*

*Life is so generous a giver
But we, judging its gifts
By their covering, cast them away
As ugly or heavy or hard,
Remove the covering and
You will find beneath it
A living splendor.
Woven of love, by wisdom,
with power.*

*Welcome it, grasp it,
 And you touch the hand
 That brings it to you.
 Everything we call a trial
 A sorrow or a duty.
 The hand is there.
 The gift is there, and the Wonder of an overshadowing presence.
 Our joys too, be not
 Content with them as joys.
 They too conceal diviner gifts.*

which is not hidden in this present instant.

Faculty

Guiding, advising, encouraging bewildered students.

These are the manifold tasks of a teacher.
He has much to give.

For he has already traveled

A road of successes and failures.

Using his knowledge, he directs us to the path of true, satisfying achievement.

But along that path we must proceed alone.

Our greatest teacher, then, will be experience.

Administration

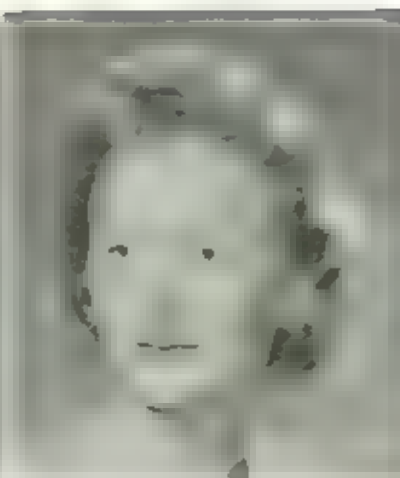

The administrative staff deserves praise for its skillful guidance of all school activities. Under the leadership of Dr. William Anderson, the principal, the administrative staff organizes and directs all of South's instructional and extra-curricular activities, besides setting all rules and establishing school policies. Mr. Robert Conklin, the new assistant principal, is responsible for determining class schedules, arranging fire and civil defense drills, and handling discipline problems. As the new co-ordinator, Mr. Calvin Seiler directs the instructional program of the school. The duties of the dean, Mrs. LaRue Belcher, include serving as a counselor in personal and school matters and approving applications for student officers, queen candidates, and foreign exchange students. All jobs of South's administration are done with an interest in the students of South and an enthusiastic school spirit.

Counseling and special services personnel guide and assist the students at South. The counseling teacher works with the student and his parents to plan the student's schedule for each semester. Another duty of the counselor is to keep a cumulative scholastic record of each of his students. While the vocational counselor assists students in obtaining employment, the career counselor advises pupils and parents about occupations and careers. College representatives from all over the country are brought to South by the college counselor to speak to interested students. They also assist college-bound students by providing useful information pertaining to admission requirements. The social worker gives advice to students troubled with family or personal problems.

The librarians and the nurse make up South's special services personnel. Students are aided by the librarians in finding study aids and developing library skills. The nurse's duty is to care for students who are injured or who become ill at school. She also supervises physical examinations, gives eye and ear tests, and keeps health records for all students.

Clerical Staff

Seemingly endless clerical duties must be efficiently handled if a large high school hopes to operate smoothly. South's office staff handles telephone messages, prepares weekly and special bulletins, distributes locks, keeps student records on file and arranges conference appointments. These ladies also manage attendance files and absence excuses and distribute special forms and notices to students and teachers. The duties of dispatching textbooks and fee cards and supervising financial transactions of various school clubs and organizations lie in the hands of the school treasurer. As a result of their constant effort, South High is a well-ordered and carefully managed institution.

Business Education

In our complex world of today, the career opportunities in the business field are practically unlimited. South aids in preparing future business leaders by offering many business education courses to help instill the kinds of knowledge necessary to succeed in the vocation. Stenography, transcription and typing are mandatory for the aspiring secretary. While performing useful services to the school, the office practice student learns office routines and operations of business machines. Bookkeeping courses train the future accountants and business managers. Personal shorthand is not only intended for the business student, but is a useful aid for any student. Business English, law, and arithmetic add depth to the curriculum. It is obvious that South's business courses are valuable aids in many students' futures.

Music

The aim of South's music department is to develop and increase already existent musical talents. South's musical organizations include Concert Band, Concert Orchestra, Girls' Ensemble, Bach Choir, and Concert Choir, in which musically gifted students may participate. Other courses are offered, including music history and music theory. Students prepare for their many public performances at school and in the community by long hours of private practice and special group rehearsal sessions. Music students who are highly qualified may be elected to the All-City and All-State musical organizations.

"How do you pronounce that word again?" asks Mrs. Kates.

For the art teacher who has everything!

Art

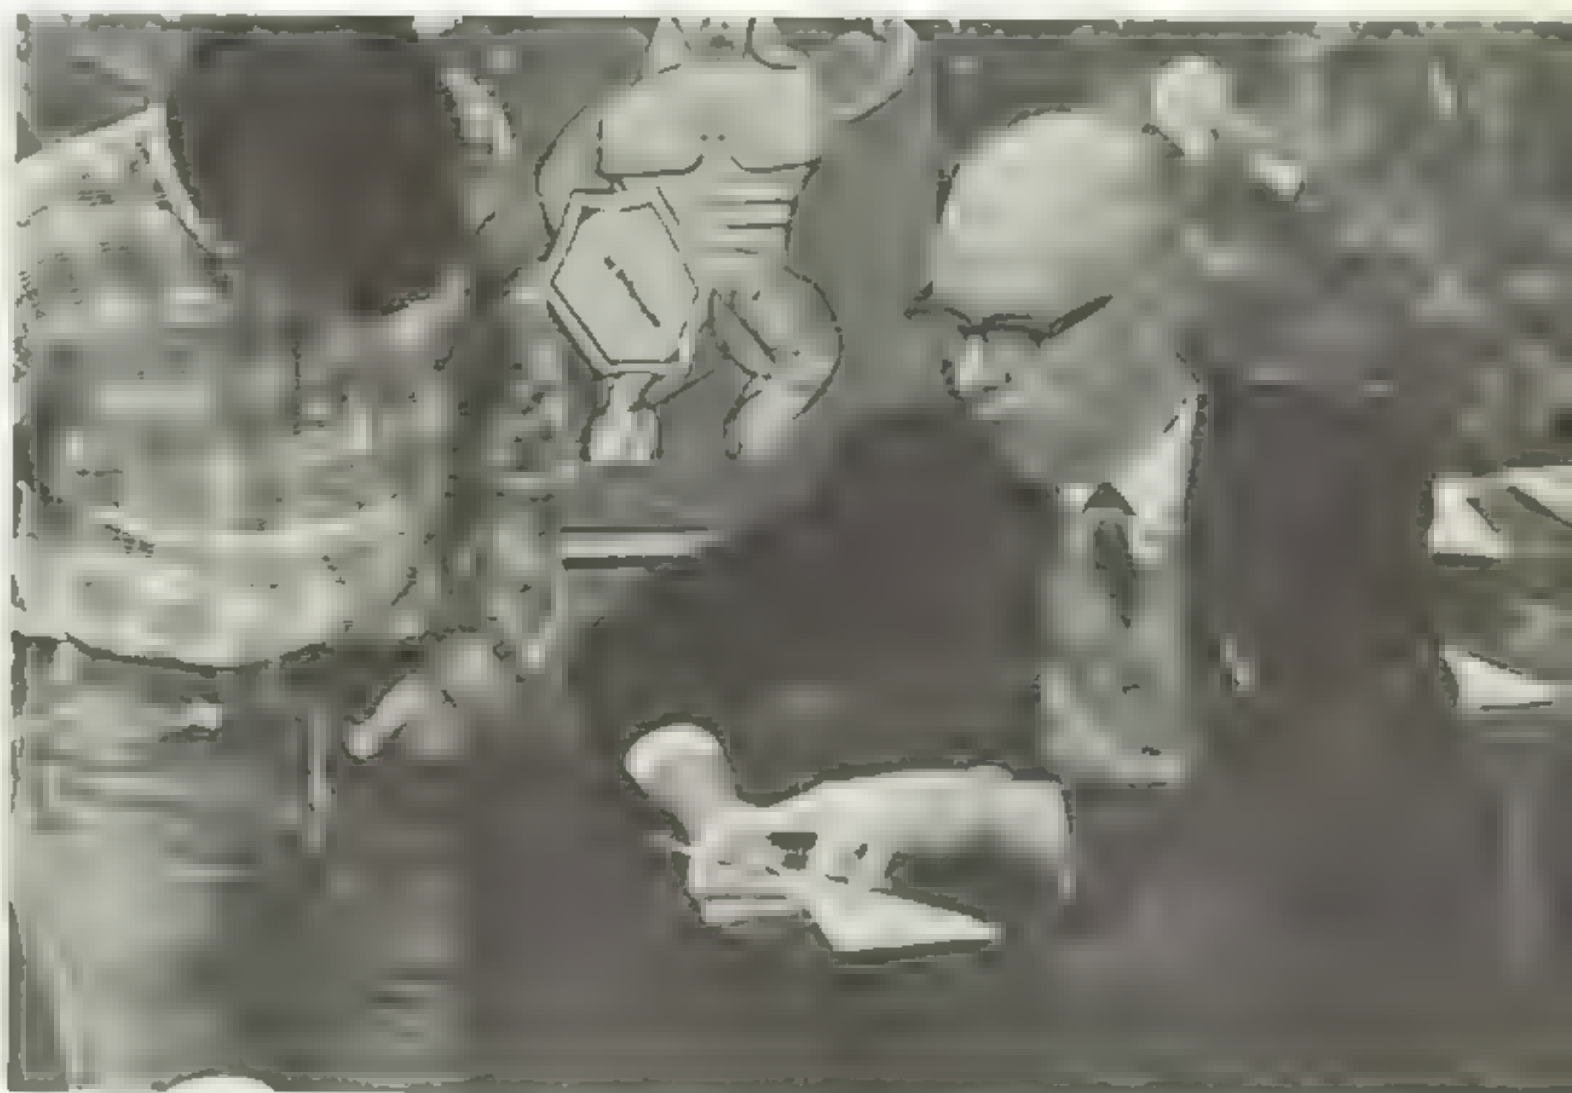

To meet the growing demands of South's artistically minded students, the art department has expanded over the last five years to include such diverse classes as commercial art, fashion drawing, art appreciation, and ceramics in addition to the standard art crafts and drawing and painting courses offered by most schools. New individual tables have replaced the antique ones, and one of the art rooms has been completely redecorated to provide more work space and adequate facilities for classes. Students are now able to enjoy a wide variety of mediums, such as lithograph, leather, plastic, enamel, and clay

English

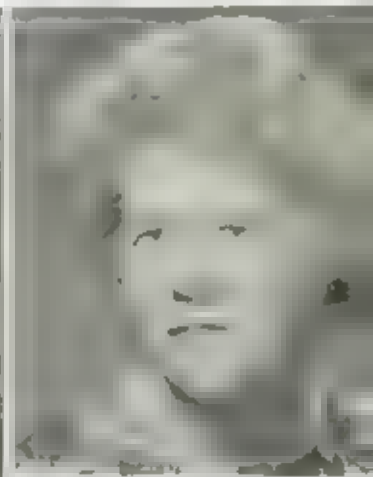

This year South High students are enjoying an exciting and unusual variety of English courses, and many new teaching methods are being employed. For the first time a course in Shakespeare is being offered by the English department. Students taking college preparatory English are benefitting greatly from the team teaching program which is in experimental use. In the various literature classes, the poems, plays, novels, and essays of American, English, and European authors are explored. Drama and speech students use their acquired skills to produce school plays while they develop poise and confidence. Pupils' ideas are expressed on paper in creative writing and composition classes. The journalistic abilities of interested students are enlarged through the publication of the Confederate, South's newspaper, and the Johnny Reb, the yearbook. Through the use of such new equipment as overhead projectors and new reference materials for teachers and students, it is hoped that a better knowledge and understanding of English will be gained by students.

Industrial Arts

Through careful planning and the use of tools and industrial machines, boys in woodwork and metalwork classes make attractive and servicable projects. These students also gain experience by making models which accurately depict the object to be constructed. The mechanical drawing courses progress from the fundamentals of instruments and materials to the making and interpreting of various types of technical drawings and the understanding of the mathematics involved. Pupils qualified may enroll in stagecraft classes, where they are taught to apply skills in various arts and crafts to the operation of the stage for school activities.

Home Economics

Teachers of South's home economics department instruct girls in the arts of cooking, sewing, and home decoration. In South's kitchens the girls in foods classes apply their knowledge of nutrition by planning, preparing, and serving well balanced meals. Beginning clothing students learn by designing and making simple garments and then more complicated ones until they are able to sew proficiently at home. The advanced courses teach the principles of design, fashion and choice of materials. Girls acquire a knowledge of interior design and develop good taste in the selection and arrangement of furnishings by studying home decoration. All of the home economics courses prepare students for the responsibilities and challenges of modern home management and family care.

Language

Comment s'appelle le bateau sur lequel vous travaillez? Does this make any sense to you? If you were enrolled in one of South's French classes, it would. Courses in French, German, Italian, Latin, Russian, and Spanish are offered at five levels. Latin and German students may receive college level curriculum. Besides studying the correct grammar, pupils learn to understand the spoken language through the use of records and tape recordings heard in the language laboratory. The customs, history, and literature of the country or countries where the language is spoken are also studied, adding dimension to the course. Famous literary works are translated and interpreted from the original language in advanced classes. South's numerous courses dealing in foreign languages are marvelous promoters of the precious ability to communicate. N'est ce pas?

Physical Education

Contributing to the development of good physical and mental health is South's physical education department, which stresses fitness, coordination, and agility. Gymnastics students increase in grace, improve in form, and gain versatility on the apparatus while practicing techniques and acquiring new skills. Team sports such as football, basketball, baseball, softball, speedball, and track and field events emphasize good sportsmanship and unselfishness. Swimming and wrestling are also a part of this department. Modern dance classes teach girls skills in the various types of dance and the fundamentals of choreography. The health education classes discuss and demonstrate accident prevention and first aid to the injured.

Mathematics

The kinds of math courses taken by a South student are relative to his ambition and ability. There are basic and general math courses for those who want to learn the fundamental principles of mathematics. More challenging still are the courses offered in the four levels of algebra, plane and solid geometry. For the student who is interested in going on to more difficult phases of math, there are classes covering trigonometry and math analysis. Finally, there is a special program designed for the able and ambitious students who desire to take the accelerated math program. This program starts in the sophomore year when plane and solid geometry are intensively studied, followed by unified algebra and trigonometry in the junior year. If capable of handling an even more difficult course, the dedicated students may pursue the rewarding college math class which involves calculus and analytical geometry. A student who successfully completes any of South's many math courses is assured of being a better-informed person.

Science

A varied choice of studies is offered by South's science department. Physics classes enable students to learn the relationship of matter to energy, while chemistry students study the behavior of elements. Biology students study the life processes of the various forms of biological existence, which are plants, animals, and human beings. Each of these forms of life is studied more specifically in separate courses: botany, zoology, and physiology, respectively. Weekly laboratory periods supplement the daily lectures of all these courses. Other courses which are available in the science curriculum include geology, photography, physical science, and a college chemistry class for qualified seniors who have demonstrated unusual scientific ability.

Social Science

The courses offered by South's social science department trace the progress of man and civilization from prehistoric times through our day. Ancient, medieval, European, American, western, and contemporary histories give students an awareness of the significant influences and contributions of the past and their importance in our present society. After exploring the political ideologies belonging to the various cultures, students can hope to better understand today's world. The accelerated history curriculum encompasses all of these courses and gives students the opportunity to study college level history during their senior year. Classes in government and economics explain the specific organizational systems of the nation. Psychology and sociology explore the individual and his role in society.

Custodians' Work Is Never Done

Hauling limping students and their book-bearing friends up and down on the elevator, answering distress calls for heat, rescuing frazzled study-hallers from a screeching radiator, rejuvenating the hallways following an after-hours session of Rebel revelry, shedding light on all the subjects at South, and generally keeping Rebel headquarters clean are among the many invaluable services performed by our force of custodians. Their job is made challenging by the mysterious appearance of gum in the drinking fountains, deformed forks in the lunchroom ceiling, and missing acoustical tile on stairwells and in sophomore hall. Even during the summer there is no rest for South's custodians, for they must ready the school for a new onslaught of Rebels.

"I think it needs more asparagus."

What's Cookin'?

Lurking somewhere behind clouds of hot steam, mounds of sandwiches, lines of pies and cakes, and vats of nourishment, are their creators, the lunchroom staff. These ladies are faced with a herd of ravenous students and teachers thrice daily. The main job of the lunchroom ladies is to provide adequate food for our students and teachers. They take requests for extra pieces of pizza, special pieces of cake, different flavors of soup, and big stacks of hamburgers. Then they return the fourth floor to its original condition. Additional duties include sympathetically enduring spilled hot lunches, and posting the daily menu.

Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom

If "all the world's a stage," as Shakespeare asserts, one of the leading actresses in the scene played at South has to be Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom! This energetic and vivacious teacher of drama and English made her first entrance in Illinois, and first starred as an educator in Santa Fe, New Mexico. Coming to Colorado in 1958, Mrs. Nordstrom received her Masters degree in speech therapy from the University of Denver, and began teaching at South in 1958. Here, she directs all of the school's dramatic productions, including the All-School Show, sponsors all three of the Drama clubs, and is teaching a course in Shakespeare, which was just added to the English curriculum. Lunch hours and planning periods Mrs. Nordstrom volunteers to help students. She has been a leader in the growth of the High School Drama Festival. It seems that her work at school would deprive Mrs. Nordstrom of any life "outside," but she is happily cast in multiple roles as the mother of a teen-aged daughter, Trina, a sophomore at South, the gourmet-cook of Mexican dishes, collector of Japanese prints, and landscape artist and gardener for her own home. Shakespeare may have had her in mind when he wrote, "... the all-seeing sun ne'er saw her match since first the world began." Certainly we have no match for her at South.

Mr. Edgar Warren

Orchids by the armful are due to South's own orchid-grower and biology teacher, Mr. Ed Warren, who for the past two summers has brought honor to American scientific achievement by helping the people of India. Mr. Warren has been instrumental in training India's science students to become teachers of biology. This fine representative of our school and our country was born in Denver and spent his high school days as an East High Angel. After serving in the Navy during World War II and earning his Masters degree in Science at the University of Colorado, Mr. Warren became a Rebel in 1954. As one of the organizers of the Biological Services Curriculum Study, he was recognized as an outstanding biologist when in 1960 he served as a member of the writing conference in Boulder which prepared the textbook for the BSCS Biology Program. When the day's classes end, Mr. Warren goes home to his hobby of growing rare and beautiful orchids. He is a member of the Denver Orchid Society. At the annual faculty dinner, each of the ladies has a corsage of flowers grown by Mr. Warren and arranged by his wife. The faculty room is often graced by a rare plant from the Warren greenhouse. Photography is another of his hobbies.

Miss JoAnn Campbell

One of South's outstanding answers to the few who still chant the old saying, "Those who can, do; those who can't, teach," is Miss JoAnn Campbell. This vibrantly active young lady is outstanding in all the areas of physical education she teaches. Born in Denver, Miss Campbell was tumbling and swimming as a toddler, and by the time she was a student at East High, she had firmly established her interest in physical education. She was president of the Pep Club and Sports Club and earned enough points to be recognized as an Honorary Athlete at East. She took her enthusiasm for sports to Colorado State College, where she received her teacher's training and degree, and where she has done graduate study in counseling and guidance. Her first years of teaching were spent in Ft. Morgan and Aurora, after which she taught at Cole and Morey before coming to South in 1962. Here, Miss Campbell sponsors the Senior Class, Aquads, the swimming club, and Girl's Gymnastics. She takes an active part in AAHPER, a professional physical education organization. During what little spare time she has, she enjoys her hobbies of camping, fishing, snowshoe hiking, golfing, bowling and swimming.

Mr. Robert Conklin

When Robert Conklin was on his way into the world a few years ago, God saw that he had about three times more talent, personality and charm than one person required. Therefore, He told Robert he'd have to share all this with his identical twin, Richard. Both of them, consequently, arrived on the scene with twice as much "go power" as anyone else. Robert is now the assistant principal of South, and Richard is a counseling teacher at Manual. In 1950, both boys graduated from South High and joined the service. Mr. Robert Conklin served five years in the Navy Air Corps and fought in the Korean War. In 1955, the twins enrolled at the University of Denver, where Robert received his degree in English and physical education, and later earned his Masters degree in counseling. He taught at Bromwell Elementary School before bringing his counseling talents to South in 1960. Both brothers have always been avidly interested in sports, and before becoming assistant principal Mr. Robert Conklin coached South's wrestling and track teams. South's students and faculty are both very happy to have at least half of this "dynamic duo." The Conklin Twins, as the new assistant principal

Editor Sharon Kumm flashes her infamous look

Head Photographer, Tom Nance, is caught in a rare illuminated moment in his ad room

Have you ever heard the traumatic tale of the Johnny Reb's production? Starting in August, the eager young yearbook staff faces selection of a theme, a cover, and the initial process of the book's evolution. Fast friendships are formed while rushing to meet deadlines. Photographers are forever fidgeting and fumbling over reluctant flashes. Necessary candid poses cause undue consternation for clubs. Daily rigors of class are met with calm smiles and shattered nerves. Earnest young typists realize that fifty-five space lines tend to divide words in most unusual places. Screams of anguish fill the paper-cluttered room. Boundless copy, unprintable photographs and streamlined ideas flow forth until the sponsor shouts "STOP!" and the gallons of rootbeer arrive. The final hour of triumph comes before dawn on the last morning in May. Flying low from Texas, our Sopwith Camel comes in with the mission accomplished, piloted by publisher's representative, Tony Darnell. Our fearless leaders, sponsor Ann Campbell and editor Sharon Kumm, lead the victory march into the building, where happy Rebels collect their volumes to keep and treasure always

Sets New Type

South's newspaper is not merely the source of Rebel current events, but the Confederate also supplies all Rebels with flags, stickers, and Rebel heads as well. With the first issue of each year, the Confederate provides South's students with a rare opportunity to get acquainted, as they turn publication day into Howdy Day. "Howdy, I'm ---" tags are distributed along with the paper so that everyone can find out who's who. On Homecoming day, the newspaper staff sponsors Rebel Roundup; and each year the staff writes and produces an original Santa Claus Shop skit to encourage students to donate toys for underprivileged children. The entire staff of artists, photographers, writers, and editors strives to bring a fine newspaper to Rebel readers each third Friday. In addition to regular issues, a senior edition is published. The ultimate goal of editor-in-chief Vicki Arnoldi and sponsor Mr. Carl Johnston is an All-American rating from the National Press Association for the Confederate.

Year Marks Premier of Shark

The formation of the South High Amateur Radio Klub this year added a new field to the wide range of interests already covered by Southern organizations. Meetings of SHARK are held each week so that members can exchange accounts of their experiences with amateur radio. With the assistance of Mr. Robert Morrison and Dr. Dana Wells, sponsors, the members learned Morse code and increased their understanding of fundamental radio theory. SHARK also offered its members opportunities to see modern radio in action through field trips to amateur radio stations, commercial stations, and a trip to the National Bureau of Standard Radio Propagation Laboratories near Boulder.

Rebel Writers Sign Scroll With Quill

South honors its outstanding journalists by initiating them into membership in Quill and Scroll, the National Journalism Honorary Society. Students who have an overall B average and who have done exceptional work on the Confederate or Johnny Reb are eligible. Co-sponsors of South's Quill and Scroll chapter are Miss Ann Campbell, yearbook advisor, and Mr. Carl Johnston, newspaper advisor. This year's officers were co-presidents Marilyn Cohara and Vickie Arnoldi, vice-president Mandy Nicholson, secretary Greta Davis, and treasurer Kathy Todd. Forty young journalists proudly wore the Quill and Scroll badge after their initiation in January.

Society Picks Guitar

South's Guitar Society was reorganized this year to provide high-strung enthusiasts the opportunity to learn various types of music and guitar techniques. Meetings offered young twangers the chance to specialize in classical, folk, or rock and roll guitar as members divided themselves into workshop groups. Although actual lessons were not given, the participants learned from one another. The only qualification necessary to become an active string picker was the ownership of a guitar. Mr. Carl Johnston and Mr. Michael Kinsey, both well versed in the art of playing and singing, sponsored the club and assisted in planning activities which included attending a folk music concert and performing at an assembly.

Triple S Spells Success at South

What will happen when they find out that I got a C in Modern Individual Calculus I??

The South Scholastic Society is an honorary organization whose purpose is to recognize scholastic excellence in Rebels. A student must receive five A's and no C's in a semester in order to gain admittance to Triple S. He must also retain this average.

This Triple S year was highlighted by guest speakers including Mr. Robert Brown, South's historian-author, who spoke about writing his three books, and Sharon Boshinski who told of her summer experiences as an AFS representative in the Swiss Alps. A field trip and a year-end banquet were also included in the year's activities. Mr. Buren Carr, Triple S sponsor, helped guide the Southern intellectuals into the colleges of their choice.

Pep Club Puts Up Cheerful Front

Pep Club girls rally to the support of our team at Manual stadium

South's Pep Club rallied to the support of our Rebel teams under the direction of sponsors, Miss Jacquelyn Dean, Miss Iris Shettlesworth and president Mary Anne Maul. Besides attending all the sports, the girls ushered, sold shakers and athletic tickets and put on a spring fashion show. Nothing could keep these rousing Rebel girls from performing their duties as shown when they marched in the Veterans' Day parade in below freezing temperatures.

Pep Club Executives Regulate Cheerfully

Twenty-one rousing Rebel leaders made up the Pep Club Council. These girls were responsible for planning and carrying out the activities of Pep Club this year. Their jobs ranged from being president or heading various committees to making over 400 shakers over the summer. These girls combined their efforts with a couple of older members, sponsors, Miss Jacquelyn Dean and Miss Iris Shettlesworth, to produce one of the greatest Rebel clubs.

John Bliss, president, and sponsor Coach Stransky discuss a more functional place to wear track shoes

"S" Club Sponsors Spirit of Sportsmanship

All boys who received a letter after participating for a specified number of hours in a certain sport or sports were eligible for membership in S Club. Mr. Robert Stransky, the club sponsor, guided the lettermen in promoting meaningful school spirit, sportsmanship, and unity and good-feeling among the athletes at South.

In the true competitive spirit of good athletes, S Club again challenged the Pep Club in a contest to determine which group could bring the most toys for the Santa Claus Shop. The competition between the two greatly increased the success of the drive. S-Club lettermen were in charge of refreshment sales at athletic events. They also sponsored a dance and planned a picnic as part of their special activities for the past year.

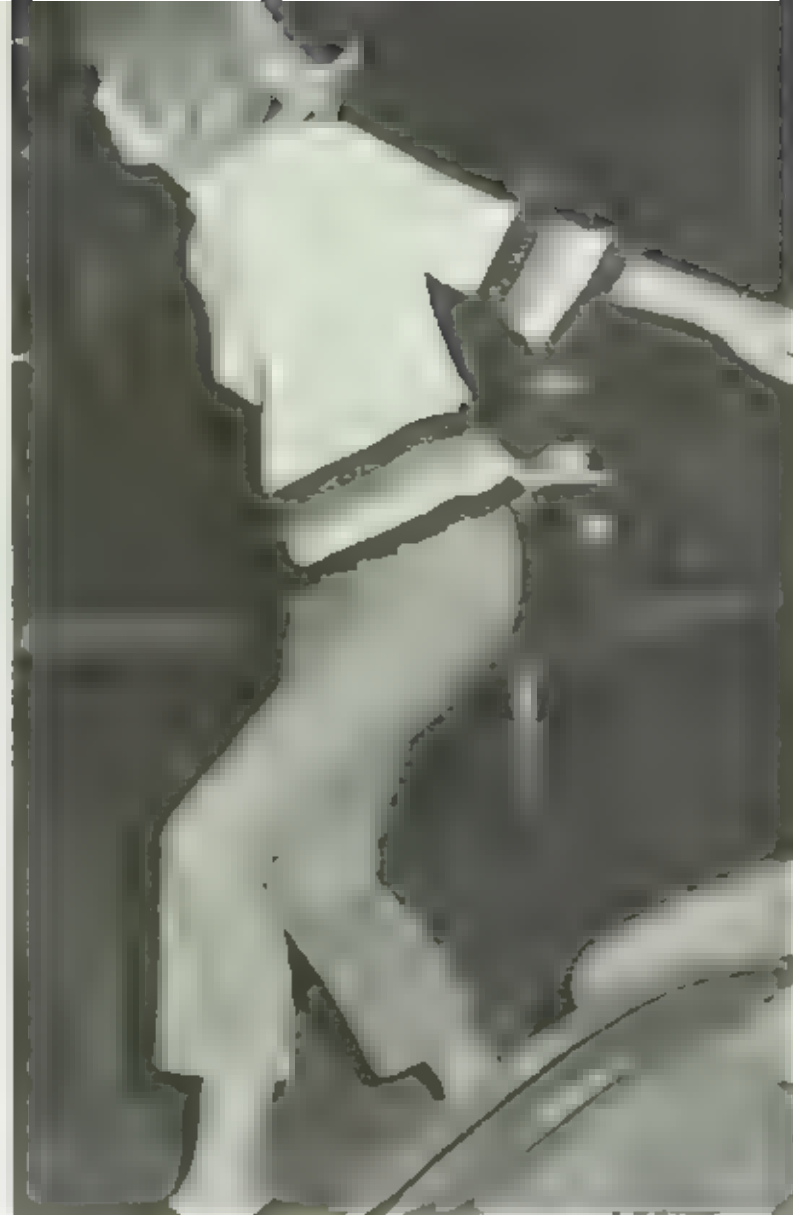

"It was not their superior speed, it was bubble gum on my track shoes."

"Good grief. Why doesn't anyone want my autograph on his shoes?"

"But I thought zero was a perfect score!"

Club Strikes Spare Time

Leaps in ecstasy, shouts of joy (or defeat), hands jammed into mouths or over eyes were all a part of emotional and exciting Monday nights at the bowling alley for the South High Girls' Bowling Club.

Sponsor for the feminine bowlers was Mr. Norman Kurtz. He coached the members toward perfect form and a 300 game. He also gave encouragement when the scores seemed a little lower than usual.

The better bowlers of the group participated in the January All-City Tournament, in the April All-State Tournament, and in the National Tournament.

Bowling Club Rolls Through Striking Year

"I learned my form in Modern Dance."

"If he hits my pins again, I'll kill him!"

The South High Boys' Bowling club provides recreation and relaxation from the nerve-racking school day each Tuesday evening at Colorado Bowl. All kinds of bowling form and degrees of skill from old pro to novice are represented in the club. The more advanced bowlers represented South in the All City Tournament held in January and participated in the All State Tournament in April. There was also a national tournament. The Bowling Clubs added several ornaments to the Rebel trophy cases in past years.

The Southern strikers attained new skills and polished old ones to perfection under the able guidance of club sponsor, Mr. Norman Kurtz. Mr. Kurtz helped the members improve their scores, better their form, become accomplished scorekeepers, and generally enjoy themselves.

Rabalte members congregate around the net before a match.

Rabalte members were whizzed through an exciting year by a couple of real swingers, sponsor, Miss Carol Kile and president, Debbie Cox. To keep the members on the ball, meetings were held Tuesday and Thursday nights at Washington Park courts. Old hands at the sport served as expert instructors for the beginners. Through the year, Rabalte netted many fine and worthwhile activities such as occasional tournaments and parties.

Rebel Rollers really rolled this year with sponsor, Mr. Frank Ono and president, Richard Lovely. Meeting every Wednesday night at Roller City Central gave the proficient members a chance to develop graceful styles of their own, while the beginners' ambition was to stand. The hard bumps along the way didn't seem to discourage the "rollers" as they participated in many parties and activities.

Synchronized Swimmers Sport

There is one organization which did not have to make a choice between sinking and swimming. South's Aquads swam. They did so on Thursday nights at Thomas Jefferson High School with emphasis on good sportsmanship and improved swimming skills. The club offered its members a chance to learn life saving techniques, earn senior life saving badges, and learn the art of speed swimming.

Perhaps the major portion of this year's dripping and splashing efforts were put forth in the production of "Holiday Splash". The annual water show was produced under the direction of Miss Jo Ann Campbell, sponsor, and featured a synchronized swimming and a water ballet.

"Speed kills. Slow down and live."

Who are they that would voluntarily rise before the sun on weekends, pull on layer after layer of clothing, sling Zwoc Brettl over their shoulders, and march out into a dark, frosty winter morning? They are the hardy, energetic members of South's organization for ski enthusiasts, Zwoc Brettl (two boards). The club offers everyone from racer to snowplower an opportunity to enter the mountainous, snowy world of skiing at many nearby areas.

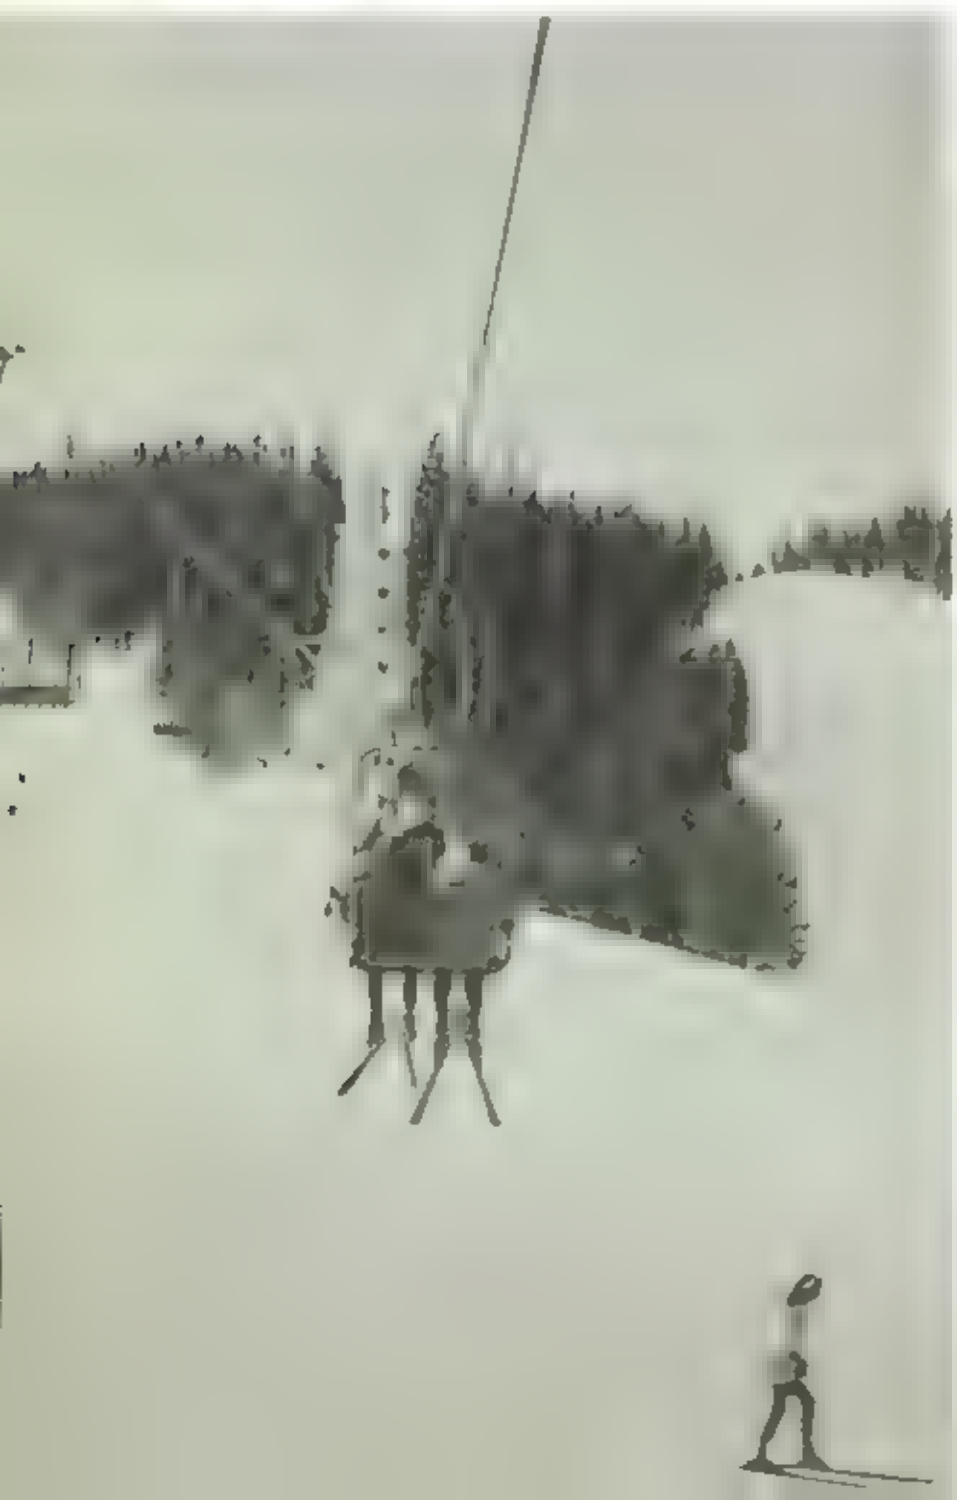

Reduced group rates on tow tickets, instruction for beginners, and tips on safety and improved skiing ability are among the features of the club.

Mr. Lloyd Meech, mild-mannered chemistry teacher during the week turned superskier on weekends, sponsors the club and accompanies them on weekend and holiday jaunts.

L'Académie française, South's foreign language club boasts a singularity of existence all its own. The members of French Club attempt to further their command of the French language as well as enrich their knowledge of all aspects of France and its customs. This year's activities included pot luck dinners, old French card games, the building of a "Kiosk", and the printing of a newspaper entirely in French. The club's affairs for the 1966-67 school year were handled through the teamwork of president Sharon Boshinski and sponsor Mlle. McAlister.

Footlighters Aim For High Lights

"I'm on candid camera," smiles Jacquie Peete, co-student sponsor."

The initiative period for a drama-oriented student at South can be spent gathering points for greater involvement by joining Footlighters. In Footlighters students earn credits by helping everywhere in every way behind the scenes.

This year Footlighters met every other Thursday. Members of Footlighters are the backbone of our early dramatic activities at South and give us many future Rebel "stars."

Jacquie Peete and Megan McDaniel were co-student sponsors with the teacher sponsorship of Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom.

Masqueraders Play With Words

Southern Masqueraders is South's drama club, into which members are accepted on their number of dramatic points which may be accumulated in Footlighters. An active year was highlighted by the children's play and carried through to the support of the state contest play in the spring. Members aided in the workshop and on prop crews as well as collectively attending outside plays.

Meetings were held at least once a month at the Evanston Community Church where programs were presented for Masqueraders members only. President Delnita Barcus worked closely with all concerned and with sponsor, Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom, to provide members with an excellent year.

Thespians Cast For New Stars

Where's a copy of Shakespeare's Othello? Has the bus arrived to take us to C.U.? Who cast Sam Finch for the lead in "Music Man"? These questions may seem unrelated, but National Thespians answers them all. Thespians managed all the papers of the Drama library and the written work of the department, organized group dramatic activities and supervised casting for the All School Show, "Music Man." Thespian activities for the year hit both solemn and frivolous notes when they held formal initiation of new members in early December and when the notorious Christmas party was held. Thespians performed well under the direction of president, Anne Stare and the watchful eye of Mrs. Nordstrom, sponsor.

"Blue" Seniors Give Foxy Productions

Theatre minded seniors find advanced dramatic experience at South in Senior Drama. South is unique in the Denver school system for its offering of Senior Drama as a club. Admittance to this club and part time class can be achieved through application and open tryouts.

This year Senior Drama was directly responsible for two fine productions, Two Gentlemen of Verona by Shakespeare and The Bluebird by Maeterlink. The club is active as a unit only first semester of each year, after which members and sponsors go on to the All School Show, contest play and other drama activities.

There are no officers in the club other than the chairman of the coordinating committee and sponsor, Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom.

A bit puny under the chin but with lots of chicken soup, you'll do.

Senior drama members appear to be enjoying a rousing game of "London Bridges."

Who couldn't steal scenes with four legs, four arms and two hairdos?

We'd rather switch than fight.

When places are called or a speaker begins, who prepares the stage? Stage Crew, under the direction of Mr. Jack Lindbloom, sees to it that everything is ready on cue. The stage crew consists of a group of boys who receive no individual recognition, but their teamwork is indispensable. When other clubs at South speak of new projects, they seldom realize that each time stage crew adapts to their new plans and facilitates the production of their programs. Without stage crew, auditorium activities would be chaotic.

Orators Lend Gifted Tongues

Orators, debaters and all speech enthusiasts were thrilled with the excellence of South's Speech Club. During 1966-1967 South's Speech Club members participated in several district and state meets bringing home honors for the art of eloquence.

Ordinarily Speech Club members met every Tuesday afternoon to plan for meets, entertain guest speakers and stage mock debates. The club was sponsored this year by President, Pat Dowdle and South's Drama coach, Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom.

J.R.C. Sweetens Up Controversial Stew

International Relations Club is the austere title of a club whose first purpose is to further understanding between peoples, and establish the basis for eventual International communication. The members participated in several events for the promotion of International Relations this year. They attended a workshop at Denver University in November and sent delegates to a mock United Nations Assembly held at Colorado State College. Susan Capstick, the president, and Sponsor Mr. Koshy Philip worked closely together to afford club members countless opportunities to reach personal understanding of world affairs through discussions of International problems.

Senate 'Bates Challenge

Senate Club is not an organization of dissenters, but it is true that its members seldom reach a happy medium between two diverse viewpoints. There are no fogas flying in the night, but the club provides the time and place for debate and discussion of contemporary, controversial ideas and events. The club affords students the opportunity of meeting others to share their individual opinions. A successful year for the club was led by President Ron Tribelhorn, and sponsor Mr. Frank Coley.

Fresh Markets For DECA

DECA, South's Distributive Education Club has as its purpose training future leaders in the fields of marketing and distribution. DECA met every Wednesday, as the club programs offered outside activity to acquaint students with the functions and opportunities in these areas. Activities included state and district conferences as well as the making of marketing manuals.

This past election year found South's "Young Lovers" caught up in campaign furor. Activities of the Teenage Republicans included pot luck dinners, participation in the campaigns of the Republican candidates of last fall, speeches by leading Republicans, and state-wide T.A.R.S. conventions in February and June.

The purposes of the group are to help elect Republican officials, gain an understanding of Republican ideas and philosophy, and help the party in any way possible. Sponsor, Mr. Ellsworth Mitick, guided the elephant fans to a knowledge of politics in general and its workings, and the current issues facing Colorado and the United States.

T.A.R.S. met every other Thursday at school as required by their club constitution.

Hospitality With Service

Dixieland Diplomats is a service club which ranks as one of South's most active organizations. Its purpose is to help the students and faculty of South in any way possible, and their services are not left unused.

Dixie Dips are in charge of the production of Southern Customs, a booklet which introduces sophomores and other new students to South High. The club also hosts the Sophomore Tea before school begins each fall. The all-girl organization helps with PTA and guides befuddled parents around the school on the yearly Back-to-School nights. They help shelve and stamp new library books before school starts. It is the Dixieland Diplomats who sponsor the sales of those patriotic, protective, purple and white book covers each year. The girls still find time for the enjoyment of pot-luck dinners, a Halloween party, a Mother-Daughter Banquet each spring, and 5 a.m. initiation breakfasts for new members.

Planning the Basket Brawl Game sparked lively discussion

Made over, Clara Barton. Here I come!

Stars Strike For Red Cross

Red Cross is the Southern group whose purpose is simply to help others. Early each December, however, South's branch of the international organization gains new fame as our answer to the Harlem Globetrotters. Again this year the fairer members of the group were transformed into the Clara Barton All-Stars and met the Key Klub Klods for a friendly game of Basket Brawl. The stars firmly trounced the Klods. It was all a part of the Red Cross drive to help Santa collect usable toys for the Santa Claus Shop. Admission to the event was one toy. Red Cross was also responsible for bringing Sadie Hawkins Day out of Dogpatch and into South. This golden opportunity for girls was presented in the form of Cupid's Beau, the annual turn-about dance. The club emphasized its theme of service by entertaining patients at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital with variety shows, and taking orphans to a football game.

All projects were executed under the supervision of Dr. David Lonsdale, sponsor

"I think we should save the turn-about dance until Prom!"

Organ Guild was led by two really sharp musicians: sponsor, Mrs. Clarice Williams and president, Calvert Johnson. Most of the members have been students of the organ for five or six years. They furnished South with key note entertainment before and after assemblies and at lunch periods during the Christmas season. Although there were only seven members, Organ Guild wasn't left flat as Christmas and spring recitals were held.

Choir Tops In Concert

Once again, South's Concert Choir showed that it is "tops" in vocal music, as the largest all-senior group in South's history sang its way to new honors. Among these honors was the chance to broadcast across the nation on N.B.C., December 13. The Concert Choirs of 1961-1966 were chosen by Mr. Robert Wagner along with five college choirs and only one other high school choir. Dr. Dana Wells mentioned that it was the first time any Denver school has received this honor. To earn these high honors, the choir devotedly practices the music they sing. The choir includes many different types of choral music in its repertoire. Besides broadcasting for N.B.C., Concert Choir sang at Christmas and Easter assemblies and were invited to play for the Southwestern Division of the Educators' National Conference in March. In regard to the choir, Dr. Wells said, "The long tradition of excellence in choral groups at South is being maintained by this large body of interested students."

Girls' Ensemble Hits High Note

Girls' Ensemble is the choral singing group for junior and senior girls at South. The purpose of the group is to encourage the girls in the art of choral singing and to increase their knowledge of choral music. Membership in Girls' Ensemble also provides the girls with the opportunity to sing in public concert that music which they have rehearsed and learned to interpret.

The group performed for various civic groups several times throughout the year. They also sang at South for the Christmas concert given on December 23 and for the Spring concert in April.

Mrs. Sue Kates served ably as director of the ensemble. She emphasized improved vocal techniques and a deeper knowledge of vocal music in her daily classroom sessions.

Advanced Choir is the active vocal group for juniors who want to further their musical skill. The choir spent an active season rehearsing for and performing for various community functions and school assemblies. They took part in the traditional Christmas program and also in the annual spring choral program.

Besides providing an opportunity for the juniors to rehearse and perform, the choir gives members experience with a variety of music forms while they are trained in vocal techniques and music notation. One of the main purposes of the Advanced Choir is to train its members so that they will be valuable additions to South's Concert Choir as seniors.

Under the direction and guidance of Dr. Dana Wells, the choir demonstrated an improved technique and quality that qualified most of the group for next year's Concert Choir.

Singing Sophomores Scale New Heights

Southern sophomores are given an introduction to the high school choral music program through the opportunities afforded them in Sophomore Mixed Chorus. This is a class which gives its members a chance to rehearse and perform choral music in public.

Along with performing at South in the annual Christmas and spring programs, Sophomore Mixed sang for civic groups throughout Denver during the past year.

The Choir was under the direction of Mrs. Sue Kates. She also helped the group widen its knowledge and appreciation of different types of music and taught them how to interpret the emotional qualities in music.

Musicians Band Together For Musical Scores

South's seventy-five Concert Band members were tuned up for a great year. The band participated in the winter and spring concerts assemblies, and had an exchange performance with another high school. A special note-worthy number performed by the band at the spring concert was "The Jade Flute" written by our own Dr. Wells. Besides these, the band also played at various junior highs and recorded for the annual instrumental record in the spring.

Director, Mr. Edward Lenicheck aided in keeping South's Concert Band up with the times.

Instrumentalists String-up Note-Worthy Performances

Thirty-two of the finest Rebel string players gathered together every day to produce South's Concert Orchestra. Many members were honored by being chosen to play in the City-Wide and State-Wide Orchestras. Besides performing in the winter and spring concerts, the Orchestra hosted a "string social" in which junior high musicians were invited to come to South and participate with our Orchestra. For the All-School Show, "Music Man", they provided excellent background music and accompaniment.

Director, Mr. Edward Lenicheck aided in "plucking" out the notes of harmony which made our Concert Orchestra one of the finest in Denver.

Cheerleaders "Ooh, Ahh" Rebels to Victory

Head Cheerleader, Tara Drummond, led South's bouncy bunch of cheerleaders through an exciting year of sports activities. The girls were an active part of every sports event, from Sophomore football to Varsity basketball. "Ooh, Ahh," along with several other inspiring cheers helped to bolster school spirit and lead our teams to victory.

Gridmen Struggle For Tough Victories

Coach Stransky's first year as head football coach at South was one of several victories.

The season for South started slowly because the team did not have a pre-season game. After losses to Manual and Jefferson, though, the pig-skinners came through to trample Kennedy soundly. East then suffered a defeat to the Rebel team on our homecoming.

One of the team's greatest days of play came when they held the league's top team, Washington, to a 0-0 tie through three quarters and most of the fourth, during which the Patriots went ahead by two touchdowns. The next week saw the team playing not as well at Manual Stadium where they lost to the Lancers by one touchdown.

October 28, the team once again rose to the victory list and smashed an exuberant North Viking team.

The following week South played Englewood on the bye. The team gained an early lead over the Pirates and held it securely the rest of the game. The year was ended as the West Cowboys defeated South by one touchdown.

Seniors Dick Chilton, Dave Turner, and Dan Montgomery were voted the outstanding members of the team by their fellow players. Paul Quintana, Brent Pulsipher and several other juniors were valuable assets to the team and will form a strong core next year.

Racketmen Bounce Back

South's racketmen, led by Coach Jim Crist, served many defeats to their opponents this year. The team's morale held high, even through some disappointing losses.

The team finished in a tight 3-3 tie with West to place sixth in city, ahead of Lincoln, Manual, and West.

Earl Rhodes, number two singles player, led the Rebels in the district meet, winning his opening in tough competition.

In one of the more exciting meets of the year, South outplayed Lincoln for a big 5-1 win. Another important victory for the team was a strong 5-1 win over Manual.

Distance Men "Run-Off" with State Title

Jim McKinney sparked South's runners to a first place in the state this year. His time of 9.53 2 was a record for the two mile course at Boulder. After his first place came Bill Davis in the seventh, followed by Mike Bull, Terry Doyle, and Lon Bull. The Cross Country team trampled their city opponents in the tri-meets and went on to take second place in city. Band C teams were also successful in their attempts against other city teams. A great deal of the credit is deserved by Coach Jeter who is in his first year of coaching at South.

Golfers Grip Swinging Year

Coach Pagliasotti helped South's golfers hack through another successful year in '66. Led by Captain Pat Dea, the clubbers stole several important victories. Junior Dave Morrell, along with seniors John DeHaas and Jeff Reddy, helped put the team into a fifth place in the final city standings. Dave Morrell had the best season average of the team with only 80.6 strokes per game.

Juniors, making up a large part of this year's team, will help build a strong team for next year. Dan Hicks, '69, will also return next year, having completed one successful season.

Jeff Reddy is in perfect shape as he practices in South County.

Returning letterman Lanny Lyons led South's cagers through a successful term of league play. Tacking up the most points for the Rebels, he and the four other starting men led the team to victories over Kennedy, East, West North and Lincoln.

The experienced ball handling of Bill Davis brought Manual to a near defeat. The Manual-South game was the only time during league play in which the Bolts had to have an overtime to win.

Coverage was the word for Bayard DuBois as he led the team to within two points of Washington. Time ran out a little too fast for the Rebels and left the score hanging at 39 to 37.

Juniors Dean Horan and Bill Symons backed up the team and along with sophomores Jim Soran and Mark Williams will fight for a winning team next year.

Tankers Sink Opponents

South swimmers opened their season this year with a big 3rd place at the University of Denver Invitational Meet. Beaten only by Washington and Jefferson in the regulation season, the highlight of the year was an impressive 58-37 win over Lincoln. Captain Don Wheatlake, along with seniors Britt McGrew, Ray Heck and Dave Eckert, led the tankmen through a successful season, finishing with a third place at the District meet.

Coach Jim Crist built a well rounded team this year, and hopes for next season are high. Juniors Duncan Ferguson and John Witulski, along with Sophomore John Humphrey, show promise of a strong team next year.

Along with these seniors were returning junior lettermen Dave Krous and Jerry Hamilton. These two, along with several other juniors and sophomores will make a formidable team next year.

Backed with a strong nucleus from last year's varsity squad and several talented players from last year's sophomore team, the Rebels experienced a rewarding baseball season. Coach Pagliasotti felt that the squad not only had talent but also the desire to develop into a winning team.

Outstanding seniors Randy Higgason, James Poindexter, Larry Cameron and Rick Cressman led the team to victories all through the season.

Varsity Selects "Johnny's" Queen

A lasting spirit of enthusiasm and happiness was felt by the students and alumni of South as they attended the homecoming dance of 1966, "Johnny Comes Marching Home." Lively music for those with a more vigorous taste was provided by the Daniels, and a more moderate pace was set by Bob Davine's Orchestra. The climax of the evening came at ten o'clock when South's third homecoming queen was crowned. The three candidates, chosen by members of Pep Club and voted on by those boys participating in fall athletics, nervously waited on the stairs of Senior Hall. Many smiles could be seen as John Bliss, "S" Club president, crowned Cathy O'Brien Homecoming Queen for 1966. Her attendants were Carol Brownscombe and Susie Capstick

Who Let The Ball Out of the Cage?

"Did anybody get the license number of that truck?"

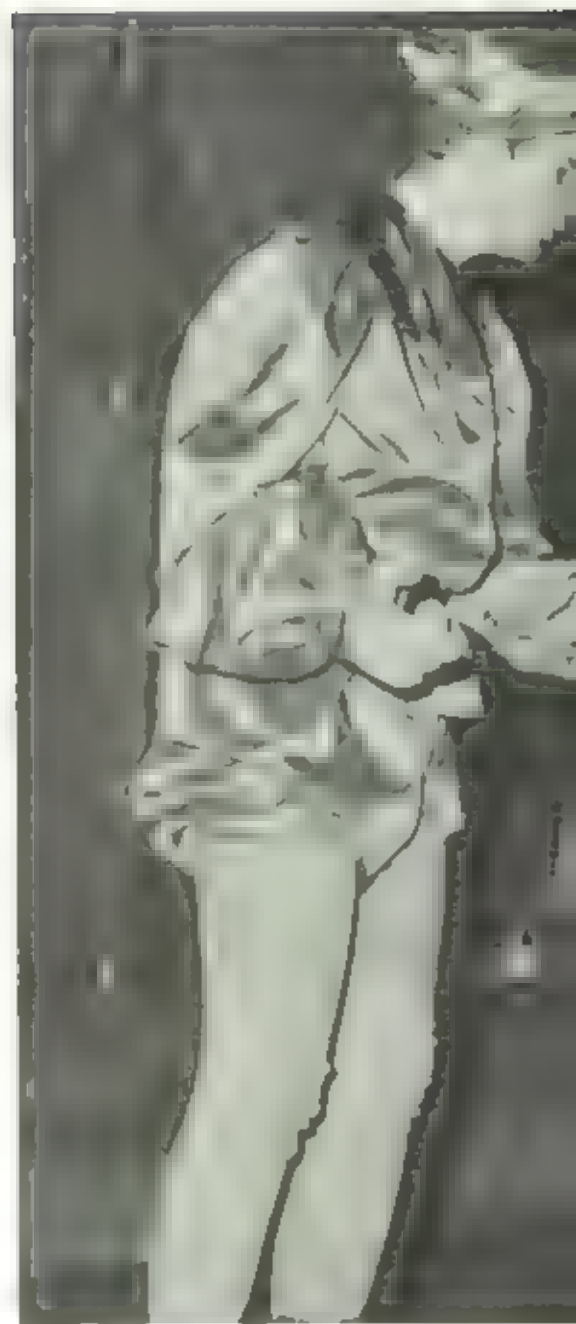

Cageball anyone? Many girls participated in the Cageball game at South which netted one hundred thirty dollars for the United Fund Drive. Each class had its own team smartly dressed in pillow cases, shorts, and knee-high socks held up with tape. All three teams put up a good fight; however, the Seniors' strategy proved to be too cagey for the Sophomore and Junior teams, who were both defeated. Six talented boys served as cheerleaders, and the whole spectacle was refereed by Miss JoAnn Campbell and Mr. Gary Price.

Two Gentlemen Kick the Can

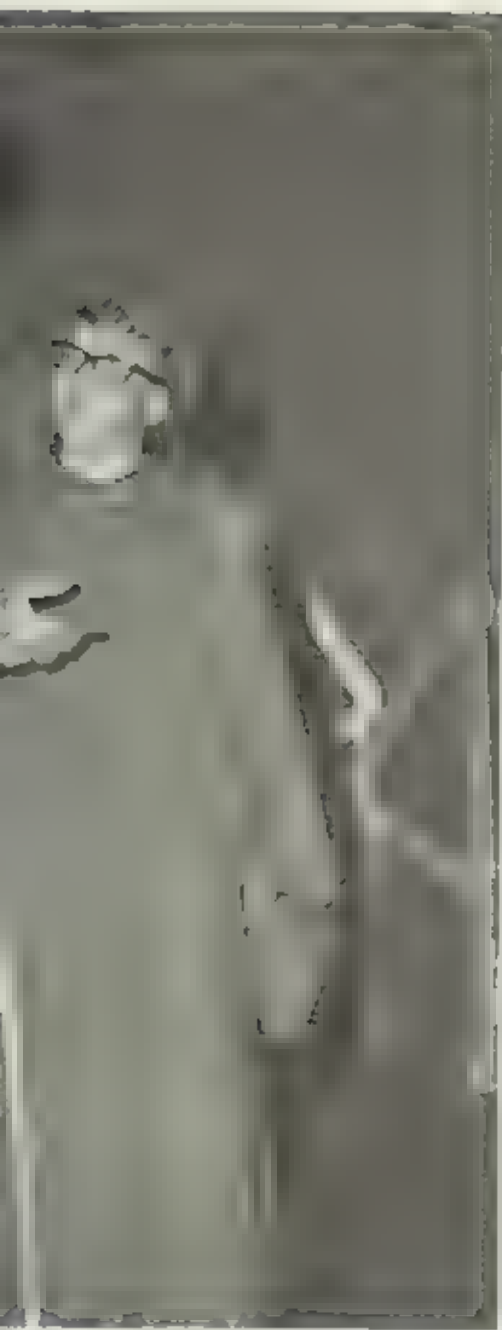

This year the Class of '67 presented "Two Gentlemen of Verona" by William Shakespeare as the Senior Class Play. Leading roles were played by Jerry Nolan as Valentine, Karl Arndt and Steve Siganowick double-cast as Proteus, Maryann Gargan and Denise Burson double-cast as Julia, and Gail Kahler and Leslie Pollock double-cast as Sylvia.

Following the play, students were admitted to "Kick the Can," the kick-off dance for the canned food drive. Admission was one can of food per person. Each can carried the name of its bearer. At the end of the evening, cans were drawn for Can King and Can Queen. Dave Eckert and Linda Erickson took the honors. The dance was held in the Girls' gym, and music was provided by the Grym Reapers until 11:30 p.m.

Mary Ann Gargan dreams of her "Prince Charming."

All I said was, "Show me a filter cigarette that really delivers the taste and I'll eat my hat."

Reddy-ness Is Key to Klomp

'Twas the fifteenth night before Christmas and all through the Girls' gym the klip klomp of many Rebels' feet could be heard. On December 10 the Key Klub held its annual dance, the Key Klub Klomp. All through the gym, old worn-out boots were hung, some dangling from rings and some placed in dignified niches in the wall. Black crepe paper carpeted the ceiling above the heads of the dancers who klomped all over each other's feet to the music of Peter and the Wolves.

Rebels enjoy themselves at annual dance sponsored by Key Klub.

But He Doesn't Know The Territory!

Seventy-six trombones led South's all-school show to success. Long hours of hard work by the 111 member cast, Mrs. Nordstrom, Mr. Mitick, Mr. Lenicheck, and Dr. Wells developed into one of the best shows in the history of South.

Brightly dressed in a loud-plaid suit, Jerry Nolan as Professor Harold Hill underhandedly bribed his way into the pockets of many townspeople and into the heart of Marian Paroo. Pam Goodman, as Marian Paroo, sang beautifully and added a touch of Broadway to the show. The barber-shop quartet harmony of Mike Portales, George Filmer, Pete Titus, and Stan Koshi pleased the ears of many. And, of course, there was the mayor's daughter, Suzie Schaefer, and her comical way of declaring "Ye Gods!" Rebel audiences were delighted and entertained by "Music Man."

The people of River City eagerly await the arrival of the Wells Fargo stagecoach bringing instruments for the boys' band.

"Professor Hill, please refrain from popping paper bags in the library."

A not so friendly mother-daughter talk punctuated with sour notes.

Marian sings good-night to her special someone.

South's own Brad Loving brings the Page Too for Rebels to dance to.

"What did I do to deserve this?"

Cupid Provides Beau And Arrow For Dance

The beat of Page Too and the aroma of onion and garlic corsages set the pace for South's annual girl-ask-boy dance. Rebel couples walked through a tunnel of love and entered the boys' gym which had been decorated like a valentine by the Red Cross members. As a climax to the dance Dick Chilton was crowned King. Dick and his attendants Bayard DuBois and Randy Higgason were chosen by Pep Club and Red Cross to rule over Cupid's Domain.

Purple Participants Start With Flying Colors

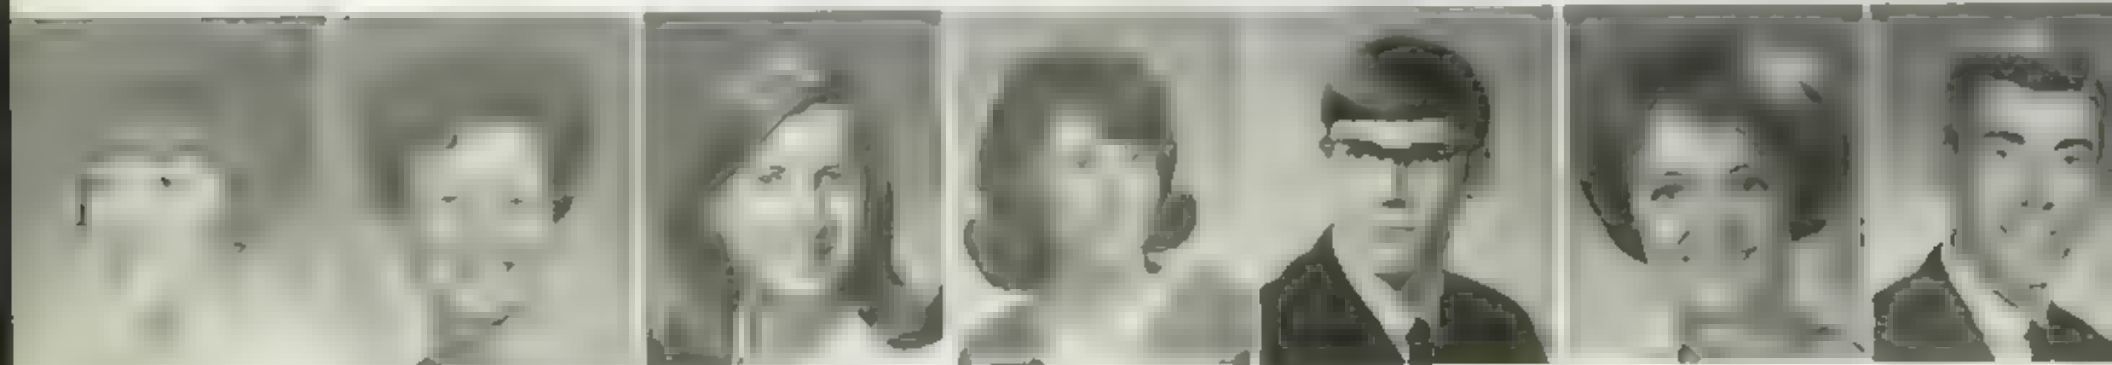

Flying at Loyalty Committee and Sports activities, the Purple participants are the first to start the year with a bang.

Loyalty Committee was formed this year at South to function as an auxiliary committee to student council. The committee's purpose is to help student council with any projects that it undertakes and to carry out rebel projects of their own. During this first year Loyalty Committee sponsored buses to the basketball games, were in charge of sports activities posters, and planned all the fabulous afternoon activities for "color day." The members of the committee have shown true rebel enthusiasm and there is every indication that the Loyalty Committee will become a significant and lasting tradition at South.

Loyalty Committee 1966-1967 was headed by chairman Frank Francone, supported by forty loyal member participants, and sponsored by Mr. Joseph Strain and Mrs. Debbie Barnhart.

Although I.C.C. was made a sub-committee of Student Council this year it retained an influential position. Having a strong body of thirty three members gave them ample leadership in boosting the organization to success. The club's main objective was to act as a sounding board for all our Rebel clubs. Sponsor, Mr. LeRoy Bonger gave his excellent assistance and support to the club.

Reserve Officers Training Corps is the official name represented by the often misunderstood initials R.O.T.C. Some wonder what a student learns by taking part in the R.O.T.C. program, and what the ordinary cadet accomplishes in this two-year course. Ever since the program was introduced, South has won many honors and its cadets have received a diversified background of education in the operation of United States Army life.

The curriculum of a cadet involves the study of basic qualifications of leadership, drill and exercises command, military organization, physical and mental development techniques, marksmanship, small unit maneuvers, weapons, hygiene, first aid, courtesy and customs.

Extra curricular activities include color guard, drill team, night guard, and rifle teams. This year the program at South has been enhanced by an outstanding rifle team which captured third in national standings in the General George B. Barth Fifth Annual International Match at Leavenworth, Kansas from fourteen midwestern states. They have also walked off with eight rifle matches taking the City Championship title.

It's not all work for the cadets as they take time out for social functions including the Annual Military Banquet and Ball at the Brown Palace Hotel, and a picnic in the spring.

Southern Tradition

Sophomores are reputedly small, shy, quiet, and scared, but South's bumper crop of Rebel Sixty Niners invaded their new Alma Mater with none of these characteristics. Upper classmen and faculty watched in amazement as these newcomers outdid them in overwhelming attendance at rallies, participation in the United Fund Cageball Game, and the PTA membership drive. Clubs found their rosters lengthened by sophomore enthusiasts, and class council sessions sparkled with ideas. Rebelution '69, the sophomore class party, was a colorful and swinging affair attended by a colorful and swinging group. The guiding force behind this new Rebel spirit was provided by class sponsors, Mrs. Barbara Schmitz and Mr. Dan Zuckerman. In a "go-go" age, this class is going places, and South can't help but "rise again" with their enthusiasm pushing it up!

Class of '68—

"The Class of '68—the only way to graduate!" Their motto expresses the drive behind this year's Junior Class.

Returning to South this year, the Juniors found that they had become better acquainted with the school and its activities. The PTA Drive was largely dominated by the Junior Class. Juniors worked hard to make the Goodwill Drive and the Salvation Army Canned Food Drive worthwhile.

Holmes, the Junior Class mascot, is a large, lovable St. Bernard. He stole the show during the Senior Class Play and drew attention at rallies and sports events.

Juniors planned and worked to make the annual prom an evening to remember.

Confident and proud of themselves
And of their class

Seniors have a chance to search
For knowledge and for others experiences

To relate to themselves

They are inquisitive and at the

Hopeful that their discoveries
Of new friends and old and of useful

Information

Will remain with them to enrich

Their lives in the enigmatic

The Class of '67

Three years of work by the class of '67 council will come to a close as the seniors prepare to take that single step which will start them on their "journey of a thousand miles." This is what they expressed in their class motto: "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step." The seniors must leave behind the antics of high school as they continue to mature in the larger world.

Over the past three years, the council has performed immeasurable service. Their efforts in Salvation Army and Goodwill drives have aided many who are financially or otherwise unfortunate.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Jo Ann Campbell and Mr. Montgomery Smith, senior council has provided Southern unity by inspiring school rather than class spirit at rallies and sports events.

The final activities of the class of '67 included the Junior-Senior Prom, Color Day, and a class gift. On June 6 they took that long awaited single step—graduation.

Seniors hold an informal first hour class meeting.

Senior Rebel Rousers

Rebel Rousers are outstanding members of the senior class who are selected by the faculty on the basis of their school spirit, participation, and contributions to the school and the community. All seniors are eligible except the Outstanding Senior Girl and Boy and the All-School and Senior Class officers. This year a committee composed of faculty members from each department selected thirty students who were worthy of being named Rebel Rousers. We extend our congratulations to these outstanding members of the Class of 1967—these Rebel Rousers.

Vicki Arnoldi
Rebel Rouser

Undoubtedly the busiest person at South this year has been Vicki Arnoldi. Besides capably over-seeing publication of the Confederate as editor-in-chief Vicki has also served as co-president of South's honorary journalism club, Quill and Scroll, and has been an active member of Pep Club, F.T.A., Tri-Hi-Y, I.R.C., Triple S, Red Cross, and the Human Relations Committee. Along with all this, Vicki has somehow managed to maintain a 4.0 grade point average. Because of her diversified interests and active support of school activities, Vicki has been chosen as one of this year's outstanding seniors.

Steve Bardwell
 Rebel Rouser

Often found inhabiting physics and chemistry supply rooms is the Albert Einstein of South High School, Steve Bardwell. Identifiable by the black and white
 "peace button" he wears, he is sought out by friends to guide them on fascinating tours of the art gallery which serves as his second floor locker. When not sleeping on the steps of the capitol building, arguing in coffeehouses, or reading a volume of his favorite book, Steve strives to be "physically inclined" and keeps fit by wrestling and pedaling to and from school.

Despite her many responsibilities to Red Cross, Linda was able to find time to be a member of F.T.A., Pep Club and student council. She was also a Junior Escort and was very active in the National Voice of Youth Seminar

John Bliss
Rebel Rouser

'Big John,' as John Bliss is usually nicknamed, is one of the friendliest and biggest senior boys at South. Although John himself is large, his taste, when it comes to cars and girls, is for a smaller model. John is also large in team spirit. The husky, fighting end, under the watchful eyes of college football scouts, provided many of South's touchdowns during the past two seasons. He will long be remembered for his Rebel spirit and his easy-to-get-along-with personality.

Rebel Rouser

Parlez-vous français? If you don't understand this, ask Sharon Boshinski, president of French Club, to translate it for you. She'll probably be able to tell you a few things in Italian too, since she spent last summer in Italy. Sharon was the lucky junior chosen to be an American Field Service exchange student. She made an excellent choice as a foreign ambassador because of her friendliness and interest in people. Who knows, with all her experience in international relations, Sharon may end up as ambassador to Outer Mongolia.

Gloria Buongiorno
Rebel Rouser

Ever wondered who selects the cheers and plans the skits for the after-school rallies? This question was answered for Gloria Buongiorno when she was elected cheerleader. Besides planning rallies, Gloria learned Homecoming drill routines, how to score gymnastic meets, numerous cheers and dance routines, and what it is like to cheer in freezing football weather. She has also been active in competitive girls' gymnastics. Along with these many activities, Gloria has served as president of Aquads, South's swimming club for girls

Rick Cressman
Rebel Rouser

As one of the founding fathers of Ollies and self-appointed sergeant-at-arms of the group, Rick Cressman has been a great supporter of school spirit. Eager to learn some new cheers for Ollies, Rick had a certain cheerleader teach him a few which she knew. He has also shown his school spirit by serving on class council and playing football for the past three years, while still keeping his high grade point average. Rick has shown friendship towards everyone, even the bunnies in Mr. Morrison's physics room.

Tara Drummond
 Rebel Rouser

Leading the South student body in support of Rebel athletic teams this year was head-cheerleader Tara Drummond. Arousing school spirit was not the only thing Tara had to do, however. She also had the difficult job of channeling the enthusiasm of the Ollie Club into acceptable forms during rallies and athletic events. This year she seemed to take a special interest in this club, composed of senior boys. South will miss Tara's enthusiasm, vitality, and school spirit next year.

Ann Eylar
Rebel Rouser

Perhaps one of the cheeriest and busiest senior girls at South is the "Jolly Green Giant", otherwise known as Ann Eylar. It is said, and not in jest, that many of her friends 'look up' to her. A drama enthusiast, Ann has participated as vice-president of Speech Club, a member of Southern Masqueraders and was in the Senior Class Play. Ann's dynamic and appealing personality is forever apparent, whether one finds her towering over a meeting or visiting the valley of seniors—Senior Hall.

Mike Gibas
Rebel Rouser

Described by his sparring partner as a wrestler who would discuss calculus during practice, Mike Gibas nevertheless placed second in the All-City Wrestling Meet

While carrying a full schedule of college courses, Mike found time somewhere in his tight schedule to play football and sing in Concert Choir. His consistent 4.0 grade average and his outside interests make him an example for all students to follow.

Randy Higgason
Rebel Rouser

Randy Higgason has brought many athletic awards to South. Randy took first place in the All-City Wrestling tournament, made All-City Center in football and played field on South's baseball team. Aside from participating in sports, Randy was a member of "S" Club, and was one of the Cupid's Beau Princes. He also participated in student council.

Gail Kahler
Rebel Rouser

Gail Kahler was indeed one of the peppiest people at South this year. As recording secretary of Pep Club, she energetically supported all school athletic events while always maintaining good grades. Besides being one of the female leads in Two Gentlemen of Verona and participating in numerous other school activities, Gail was also active in Girl Scouts and in her church. Well known for her white kerchief, Gail has certainly been a lively part of South

Sharon Kumm
Rebel Rouser

If you saw a slim, cat-loving girl riding a Honda this year, it was probably Sharon Kumm. Her destination on this red cycle was most likely the post office, where she is the fastest mail sorter in Denver. Outside of this fascinating job, Sharon is editor-in-chief of the JOHNNY REB. Sharon has a unique way of disciplining the staff (she does it in her calm voice with tinges of urgency). The staff usually responds too, because they have a soft spot in their hearts for cat-loving Honda riders—who can also maintain a 40 grade average.

Becky Lomonaco
Rebel Rouser

Perhaps Becky's most vivid memory of South will be of stumbling into her garage every year and finding it "alive" with various Goodwill items such as old coke machines and one wheel tricycles. Probably her greatest worry was that one day the other classes would find her class's treasure and haul it away some dark night. Becky was that girl you often saw running down the hall almost late to Concert Choir, or to any class for that matter. Becky was the girl who always managed to be busy with everything at once, but managing it all efficiently. South will certainly miss Becky's cheery disposition and bright smile next year.

Lanny Lyons
Rebel Rouser

Lanky is the best way to describe Rebel Rouser Lanny Lyons. Whether bounding down the basketball court, where he lettered as a sophomore, trudging down the halls at school, or lounging in senior hall, Lanny was easily recognized by his height and the long hair that was always falling in his eyes. Basketball, however, was not Lanny's only forte—he also participated on Rebel cross country and track teams. South athletic teams, particularly, will miss Lanny next year.

be found in Senior Hall, practicing for an upcoming

No one could ever imagine that quiet, tiny Mary Montgomery could scream louder than any other girl in the entire Pep Club. We'll never forget the time she almost fell over the rail as she desperately tried to argue with the referee for calling a foul on a "certain" member of the basketball team. Nobody ever will understand how she managed to eat the hot plate and two hamburgers for lunch everyday. Mary was always the girl with the sweetest smile and kindest words for everyone. South and the Pep Club will have a hard time replacing this Rouser!

His many other talents include singing in Concert Choir and constructing award winning models

Gayle Prichard
 Rebel Rouser

South's own "Lady Bird," Gayle Prichard, took up her shovel and dug into Senior Court as head of the campaign to beautify the senior stamping grounds. Gayle scattered seeds of school spirit wherever she went, too, as an outstanding clarinetist and member of the All-City Band. Hoping to become a librarian herself, Gayle spent many hours assisting in the library and also catalogued South's collection of yearbooks from all over the U.S. Gayle served on the newly-formed Loyalty Committee and proved her loyalty to South in countless ways. Her cheerful willingness to do any job made her a real Rebel Rouser.

Jeff is president of the Key Club, and he was a member of South's golf team. He is also a great actor; for who can forget his performance as Thurio in Two Gentlemen of Verona? This outstanding rebel is always "Reddy" to do something for South.

"E gods" exclaims one of South's most active Rebels, Sue Schaefer. This is only one of the many lines she has had to memorize during her past three years as an active actress at South. Hardly any play, All-School show or musical concert is presented without the familiar face of Sue. Besides her acting ability Sue has developed great dexterity on the flute and a beautiful voice. Although she is constantly studying to maintain her 4.0 grade average, she finds time to be friendly and loads of fun. A fellow Rebel can always count on a smile and a bright "hello" from Sue

We'll never forget the day she came to school hobbling on a flower-covered cast, but her only comment to all the attention she got was, "such a deal". The Senior Drama class would probably call Anne, "Hostess of the Year." Senior Hall won't be the same next year without the thump of Anne's cast, or the sound of her cheerful laugh.

Dick Schultz
Rebel Rouser

South's own fiddler on the roof, Dick Schultz, represented South as the concertmaster of the All-City Orchestra. He has entertained many Southern Rebels who have heard him play the violin in the hillbilly Jug Band as well as in South's Orchestra.

His "louder than thou" attitude has amazed many Rebels while he was cheering with other members of Olle.

Because of his friendly, good-natured personality and his support of school activities Dick was chosen a Rebel Rouser.

Kathy Todd
Rebel Rouser

Arousing controversy was one of the jobs Kathy Todd had as co-editor of the editorial page for the Confederate, South's newspaper. Deciding which articles should be included in the publication and which should be placed in the "round file" occupied much of her time. Somehow she found time to practice her violin and was chosen as a member of the All-City and All-State Orchestras. As if writing and music weren't enough, Kathy was active in F.T.A., Dixieland Diplomats, Quill and Scroll, Teenage Republicans, and Triple S.

Leilani Ukulele
Rebel Rouser

In this corner, weighing approximately one-hundred and fifteen pounds soaking wet, we have Rebel Rouser Leilani Ukulele who can be found at almost any swimming pool demonstrating her unique swimming style. She is one of the top female swimmers in the state and because of her Hawaiian extraction, she has a natural talent for the native dance—the hula. Because of her sporting spirit Leilani has been chosen a Rebel Rouser

Dave Turner
Rebel Rouser

Most of the students who attend football and basketball games know who Dave Turner is. When Dave was a sophomore, he made the varsity football and basketball teams and has remained on them all three years at South. Dave is bigger than most students at South and is easily distinguished by his size. Besides being interested in sports, Dave was a member of Concert Band and Choir, along with Hi-Y, Key Club, and 'S' Club.

Wendy Weiner
Rebel Rouser

If you've ever been to a basketball game, football game, wrestling match or swim meet, you've probably seen and heard Wendy Weiner. As one of South's cheerleaders, Wendy is usually found leading South's students and Pep Club in cheering our athletes on to victory. She has also been very active in student council and Red Cross. Wendy is frequently found cleaning up her front yard after some of her friends have luxuriously enhanced her trees and bushes.

Seniors

Should you be in attendance at any rebel activity, be it basketball, swimming, or a rally, you're sure to see Bill. In fact, the only time you won't see the red-headed, freckle-faced, letterman-jacket combination fearlessly supporting the rebel cause is during the track season. That's because from the first of March till almost the end of the year, Willy assumes the position of number one discus thrower for South.

As might be expected, however, Bill does have a hard time keeping up his grades with all this activity. But knowing Bill, we're sure that someday he will improve his already perfect 4.0 academic average. No one will forget Bill's warm friendship or the always-cheerful personality that seemed to be his trademark.

Linda Wheatlake
 Rebel Rouser

All Rebels will remember Linda Wheatlake for her contributions to South. As an active member of Aquads, she assisted with the instruction of life saving classes this year. Linda was a good assistant even though she had trouble remembering how to carry an unconscious victim in shallow water. Everyone who knows Linda is brighter because of her bright smile and sunny disposition

Dan Whitaker
Rebel Rouser

South's leading Republican is Dan Whitaker, president of Teenage Republicans. He represented South as chairman of the activities for the State TARS convention.

Besides being active in politics, Dan has a flair for writing. He was Sports Editor of the Confederate and attended many sports events while maintaining a high grade point average, and serving as vice-president of Triple S.

Senior Memories

*By remembering and reliving,
A senior can indeed become absorbed in Past events.*

He has crossed a threshold in his life.

Experience, beauty, interest
Are gifts received from others.
Often unaware of their own generosity.
Friends inspire because they give
Of themselves.
Indeed, they give the greatest gift of all.
Human love and understanding.
